

CHABAD'S CHILDREN OF CHERNOBYL

As we go to print with this newsletter, we anxiously sit at our desks monitoring a very volatile situation in Israel and the Middle East. Keeping our children — who are already extremely vulnerable and emotionally fragile given their past experiences — safe, is our top priority. The CCOC staff in Israel is incredible; they take care of the children as they would take care of their own. We pray for peace and for a world where children suffer no longer. Please join us in supporting them in every way you can.

CCOC Attracts Awareness with Past, Upcoming Events

New Leadership Events Raise Over $20,000

On June 11th, CCOC's New Leadership division hosted its Third Annual Charity Brew: Beer Garden and Date Auction at Rooftop 760. With 17 participants and hundreds in the crowd, CCOC raised over $10,000 from this event. Manhattan Beer Distributors generously donated the beer for the evening and various vendors throughout NYC donated gift certificates for each couple to use at their dates. Josh Chaitovsky generously donated the delicious food and the guests loved listening to the music played by DJ Jordan Katz.

The Seventh Annual Purim Benefit Bash took place on Thursday, March 13th at Providence NYC, which also raised over $10,000 for CCOC.

If you or your company is interested in sponsoring one of CCOC's upcoming events or to make a contribution to help meet our goals, please contact Rachel at rfertel@ccoc.net or call (212) 681-7800. We welcome any new fundraising ideas.

Jerusalem Marathon 2015: Save the Date!

On March 13, 2015 Jerusalem will welcome thousands of runners for its annual marathon. Many of these people run the Jerusalem marathon for charity, and this year CCOC will proudly bring a team to run for its cause.

Ma'ayanot High School Raises Funds, Awareness for CCOC

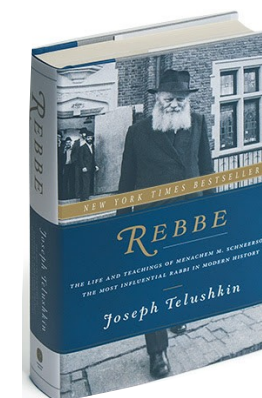

High school senior/graduate Hannah Tessel (pictured left) led a campaign for CCOC at her high school this past Spring and raised over $7,000! Hannah took initiative by selling CCOC sweatshirts to the Ma'ayanot Yeshiva High School for Girls' student body.

In addition, she and her classmates voted CCOC as the charity of choice for the Heartbeats benefit show on May 20th. Heartbeats is a student-initiated, student-created, student-directed and student-performed "night of song, dance and connection." Each year Heartbeats organizers choose a charity to which the proceeds of that year's performances will be donated; over the course of the past six years almost $30,000 has been donated to a variety of organizations that work to benefit women and children, now including CCOC. Thank you to everyone involved!

Bestseller Book Includes CCOC

In the new New York Times bestseller book 'Rebbe: The Life and Teachings of Menachem M. Schneerson, the Most Influential Rabbi in Modern History', Rabbi Joseph Telushkin documents the founding of CCOC, the importance of saving the children, and the crucial life-saving work of CCOC. Please take a moment to read the excerpt below.

Recent bride Yana (pictured left) is presented with her wedding gift by a former CCOC classmate on behalf of Risa Pulver. CCOC and Yana thank Risa for her generosity and care for Yana, who she met many years ago as a small girl when first rescued by CCOC. Yana wed Eli several months ago and is doing well in her new home in Israel.

Special Thanks to Our Donors and Friends

had recently been rescued by Chabad and brought to Israel who personally thanked the Rebbe (see following entry). The 1991 Chanukah Live features a live broadcast of a menorah lighting inside the Kremlin, where six thousand Russian Jews are gathered (communism in Russia had just recently fallen). In Paris, thousands gather at the foot of the Eiffel Tower, where a large menorah is kindled and broadcast worldwide. In Manhattan, New York mayor David Dinkins participates, and from Canada, Prime Minister Brian Mulroney speaks about the lessons to be learned from the menorah (for more on the Rebbe and Chanukah celebrations, see pages 261-70).

1990: On April 26, 1986, a nuclear reactor in the Ukrainian city of Chernobyl explodes, releasing four hundred times more radioactive material than had been released during the atomic bombing of Hiroshima. Over the following years, cancer rates and birth defects begin to skyrocket, and the impact of the nuclear meltdown causes people in the region to suffer physically, mentally, and financially. As the children of the Chernobyl region start to mature, the effects of the radiation on so many of them become increasingly apparent. By 1990, the radiation from the explosion reaches epidemic proportions, and that same year, the Rebbe asks Chabadniks to "take upon yourselves the responsibility for the well-being of these children and bring them to Israel." On August 3, 1990, Chabad successfully arranges the first rescue flight, and 196 children are brought to Israel, where they are provided with housing, education, and medical care. As of 2013, Chabad has arranged ninety-nine rescue flights, bringing 2,863 children to Israel. Chabad's Children of Chernobyl (CCOC) maintains a collaborative relationship with the World Health Organization, UNESCO, and the United Nations Department of Humanitarian Affairs. Both Jewish and non-Jewish children are served. For those children who cannot leave the Chernobyl region, CCOC sends medical equipment, medicine, and other necessary supplies to the contaminated area. In April 1997, the organization's work is recognized by twenty-one countries that issue postage stamps honoring Children of Chernobyl's vital relief work.
